KEEPING A SENIOR VETERAN STABLY HOUSED

Mr. Clark,* a 72-year-old veteran, suffered from serious health issues that prevented him from working. Paying rent was often a struggle, but Mr. Clark and his wife always made their payments, even if they were sometimes a little late. After Mr. Clark requested that the landlord make needed repairs to the property, the landlord stopped accepting his payments if they were even a day late.

When the landlord filed an eviction against him, Mr. Clark contacted legal aid for help. Legal aid connected Mr. Clark with a rental assistance program for veterans. As a result, Mr. Clark was able to make the landlord whole; the eviction was dismissed; and Mr. Clark and his wife remain stably housed.
